4. Narrative. The ship began the year by entering the Arabian Gulf via the Strait of Hormuz as a part of the USS HARRY S. TRUMAN (CVN 75) Battlegroup and Operation Southern Watch. From the 1st of January to the 29th of April, the ship alternated between time underway in the Arabian Gulf and time in port at Bahrain, home of the U.S. Fifth Fleet. At the end of March and into April the ship participated in the multinational exercise Arabian Gauntlet 01 intended to strengthen regional security and military-to-military relationships. After leaving the Arabian

Gulf at the end of April, ALEXANDRIA transited the Suez Canal on 02 May. A short stay in Souda Bay, Crete preceded the transit to the Strait of Gibraltar. Enroute to the Strait, the ship stopped in LaMaddalena, Italy to embark personnel from Squadron 22. Squadron personnel left the ship at a brief stop for personnel in Gibraltar. The trans-Atlantic voyage followed this BSP and concluded in Norfolk, VA where the ship embarked the members of the Nuclear Propulsion Examining Board (NPEB). The last two days of deployment, were spent in an Operational Reactor Safeguards Examination (ORSE). On 24 May, ALEXANDRIA returned home.

The crew spent the next month enjoying a well-deserved post deployment stand down. On 25 June, the ship began alternating upkeep periods and short local operations culminating in Torpedo Weapons Training Certification Program in late September and early October. A short 12-day turnaround in homeport was followed by Prospective Commanding Officer (PCO) Operations in late October and early November. PCO Operations included port visits to Port Canaveral, FL and Roosevelt Roads, PR.

Returning to Groton, CT on 15 November, ALEXANDRIA began preparations for a change of homeport to Portsmouth Naval Shipyard in January 2002. On 21 December, Christmas stand down began taking the ship to the end of 2001.
